WITH MALICE TOWARDS NONE: AN EDITORIAL

THE COMMENTATOR has had a long and mpestuous history here at Yeshiva College. has come to grips with many complex, philo- phic problems such as synthesis, Zionism and nti-Semitism and has dealt with more mundane natters such as Yeshiva's scholarship policies nd the athletic teams. There has been but one uly significant area of discussion that THE OMMENTATOR has never really editorialized rongly about.

Whether this silence was due to intimida- on by administration officials or simply a fear hat Yeshiva's name would be dragged down, e know not. We feel that we are responsible the student body in presenting their views, and that any continuation of our silence would violate the sacred trust placed in us by the student body.

We are saying what we feel to be extremely important not to hurt any administrator's feelings nor to damage the reputation of the school which we love so dearly.

We are fully cognizant of the sensitivity of Yeshiva's position in the community, but we feel the time has come for us to remove our kid gloves and come down to basic issues.

We realize that there may be threats of reprisal and discussion of censorship of THE COMMENTATOR, but we are not to be dissuaded.

Our job has never been more difficult than it is now, but our conscience cannot rest when we see what is happening at Yeshiva. There has been a call to duty, and this is our response.

This editorial actually began last December when two sociology students undertook a comprehensive survey to determine the behavior of Yeshiva students with respect to ethical practices during examinations, dating, and religious beliefs.

Of the 269 students who were approached 148 attend the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary, 91 are students of Teachers Institute, and 30 are enrolled in the Jewish Studies Program. Great care was exercised to insure that

Russian Request Rates Nyet As Dean Depicts Drawbacks

Over the years we have observed the pattern of world events mirrored in the circumstances of our own lives. We have gained insight from our personal experiences into the condition and nature of our environment. Our vision expanded, our perception grown keener, we have grown steadily from "seen" to "student" to "citizen". We have been borne—this is our birth.

June 13, 1963—Yeshiva College graduates 136 seniors; 136 seniors rejoice

An idea—transmitted clearly from the mind of one to the receptive mind of another—this is, in essence, education. Some ideas are expressed by concepts—the ethical and spiritual values of the Torah. Some, by sentences—an aesthetic communication or a rational analysis. Others, by symbols—notations through which we transmit our understanding of natural phenomena. The three serve to guide the student in his decision—how to use the ideas he has received.

Dr. Isaac Bacon
Dean, Yeshiva College

Rabbi Meyer Edelstein
Assistant to the Registrar

Rabbi Jerry Hochbaum
Assistant Director of Admissions

Rabbi David Mirsky
Director of Admissions

To the Class of 1963:

The underlying philosophy of education at Yeshiva College is to provide its students with the knowledge which will deepen their dedication to the observance of our traditional laws and customs while giving them at the same time a broad humanistic education which will make them fully aware and prepared for the realities of modern life.

As you leave these hallowed halls of learnings of Yeshiva College, you take with you the blessings and best wishes of the faculty and administration, and their hope and trust that the education you received here will serve as a guiding light on your path throughout life. It is my personal hope that all your endeavors will ever be within the framework of our Torah and that from it you will draw the strength that will lead you to success.

I wish each and every one of you who is graduating with the class of 1963, farewell—in the sense that you may truly fare well.

Mr. Sheldon Socol
Associate Bursar

To the Class of 1963:

As you take leave of Yeshiva College, I offer you my sincerest best wishes for every success in the years ahead. You have earned the approbation of your teachers and their firm conviction that you will continue to grow in faith and knowledge.

You are fortunate, indeed, in having attended Yeshiva College. Here you received an unparalleled foundation in the arts, sciences and Jewish studies as a foundation for the future and for further intellectual and spiritual development. For at no other institution in the country are the rich treasures of Judaism and western civilization perpetuated in one program. This unique education invests you with a special responsibility—to carry on the quest for knowledge and the study of Torah for the benefit of unending personal growth. In this way, you best serve G-d and your fellow man.

Men, like institutions, must forever develop their resources if they are to withstand the pressures of modern life. For the Jew in America, this means a constant return to those sources of inspiration which have sustained our people through thousands of years. Only through the unceasing study of Torah and the carrying forward of our sacred traditions can we maintain our identity in a world where shifting values indicate a lack of moral purpose. One of our great sages has written, "It is the way of the wise to call themselves students all the days of their life." In the 20th century, this is true as never before.

May you be granted the blessings of life, peace, and understanding.

Sincerely yours,

GRADUATE
ESHIVA UNIVERSITY

A student is judged not only as he learns but as he applies. Creative expression, leadership and sport—each reflects the individual's use of his learning. Yet, these activities cannot be viewed alone, for our life is a unity. We are at all times, morning, afternoon and night, one—the sum total of all we have been offered and all we have taken in. It is only in this perspective that this section, this book and our four years can be judged.

...and a time to lead.
